Remarks, Comments, Concerns

Raising the dikes in Burlington will put thousands of families in danger that were never affected before. Seniors, widowers, single moms, children, you name it, all for the benefit of "big business." The computer model shows an enormous area that was not in danger before. All the homes are being sacrificed so the businesses will be exempt from flood insurance. Now the homes that were exempt from flood insurance will now be required to purchase flood insurance.

The millions of dollars spent on a study could have been used to dredge the river. Silt build up is where the real problem exists. If I'm not mistaken, it probably would have cost less than the study. Not only will we have to endure the cost for the dikes, but now we will have to pay higher flood insurance as it goes up 25% per year for the next 4 years.
